

Press Release: asapm Elects Trevor Nelson as Vice President

Colorado Springs, Colorado USA: asapm Headquarters, August 8, 2010. asapm President Stacy Goff announced today that our members have elected Trevor Nelson, IPMA Level-C®, PMP® from Phoenix, Arizona, to serve as Vice President, from July 2010 through June 2013. Congratulations Trevor!

In addition to the responsibilities of the office of Vice President, Trevor will be involved with asapm's outreach to other project and program management-related professional organizations, as well as ambassador to the wide range of business networking tools that are popular with today's project practitioners. Trevor has been an active user of such sites as LinkedIn, Twitter, the IPMA Family collaboration site, and others.

Coming from the Construction industry, Trevor will add his perspective and background to the offerings of asapm. In his Qualifications statement, Trevor noted: "I am a professional Project Manager with over 20 years of experience in the construction and architectural industries, a dedicated leader, mentor and team-builder."

He has a passion for project and program management, and a firm conviction that the next advancements will be made by focusing on sound principles and improving practitioner competence rather than looking for the "next new thing."

Trevor is active in asapm in a variety of ways -- as a member of both the National Conference Planning Committee and the asapm Strategy Development "Blue Team"; as a reviewer for the aPRO Standard and the GAPPS draft Program Manager Standard, as contributor to the USA-NCB, and as an asapm evangelist on various websites.

On the personal side, he is a dedicated husband and father of seven, grandfather of three, unrepentant golf fanatic and self-proclaimed computer geek.

Trevor succeeds outgoing Vice President Richard Toledo, who guided asapm through our website renovation, bringing us more of a corporate-friendly flavor. Richard's last act as asapm VP was managing the election for his replacement. Thank you Richard! We welcome Trevor to the asapm Board, and look forward to even more insights for advancing project management in the USA.

About asapm

asapm (www.asapm.org) the American Society for the Advancement of Project Management, is a not-for-profit professional society dedicated to advancing the performance of program and project managers and their organizations in the United States, and around the World. Working through its members, together with IPMA and other professional associations, asapm provides the thought leadership needed for government agencies, businesses and consultancies to improve program and project management performance competence.

asapm certifies the Performance Competence of Project Managers, Senior Project Managers, and Program Managers. And, as the USA Member Affiliate of International Project Management Association, asapm's certified practitioners are recognized around the World. asapm also offers aPRO, an organizational assessment of PM performance, that identifies areas for improvement, and if qualified, certifies the organization as an asapm Performance Rated Organization.

About IPMA

IPMA (www.ipma.ch), International Project Management Association, is the World's first professional project management society, founded and contributing to the practice before any others. Using a federation model, IPMA is a true not-for-profit organization of Member Associations in 48+ Nations around the World. Originally organized in Switzerland, most people don't know that IPMA's first name was INTERNET, some 30 years before the name was used as the tool for rapid communication.

With its unique 4-L-C, Four-Level Certification program for PM Competence, IPMA offers the only full-range program for progression from project associate or team member to project manager, senior project manager, and program manager and projects director. With its range of Advanced, Competence-based certifications well-known and recognized World-wide, IPMA is the choice for those who understand the need for PM Competence and Performance.

IPMA Level-C is a registered trademark of International Project Management Association.

PMP is a registered certification mark of Project Management Institute in the USA and other countries.